PHENOMENON AT SEA

Ship Played Tag With Gigantic Water-spouts in Tropical Regions.

(New York Herald)

News of a thrilling game of tag played between the Drumgeith, a British freight steamship, and a score of gigantic water-spouts was brought here yesterday when the vessel dropped anchor near Bedloe's Island. The Drumgeith, Captain Fairweather, left a Java port on August 18 last and had good weather until October 10, when things began to happen in rapid-fire order.

On the night of Monday, October 10, the Drumgeith ran into a severe electrical storm. The morning after revealed a dirty sky and a choppy sea. After breakfast a baby water-spout was seen scudding along a mile or two to starboard. Like the lone Indian scout on a prairie, it was the forerunner of a whole tribe of trouble.

James Frew, the chief officer, in his log only mentions "water-spouts," but the number of them that suddenly rose from the ocean and bore down on the Drumgeith is estimated by officers and men of the crew at a score or more.

The spouts were preceded by a series of heavy seas. The Drumgeith began to toss like a cork. A heavy down-falling to the crew's washroom banged to as a Malay sailor was passing through, and the sailor received injuries from which he died three days later. Cocky, a pet cockatoo belonging to John Kidd, the chief engineer, flew out of the engineer's cabin with a squawk and was saved from going overboard by Frew.

Three big water-spouts came so close to the ship that Captain Fairweather had to swing the Drumgeith out of her course to escape destruction. They left the face of the sea boiling with foam and tossing with waves that seemed to move in every direction.

The Malay sailor was buried at sea after his brother Malays had held a wild funeral service for him.

MISS BRENT'S SINGING

A Feature Of The Neddermeyer Concert in Columbus

The Columbus Journal of Monday speaks most favorably of the singing of Miss Maude Brent, formerly of Mt. Vernon at the Neddermeyer concert at Memorial Hall, Columbus, Sunday night. The Journal states that Miss Brent's voice is a rich contralto with dramatic potentialities and of velvety smoothness. It is one of the few women's voices that had adequately filled that great auditorium, outside of the recognized world artists, of the many that have attempted it.

EXPERTS DISCUSS

BOLL WEEVIL PROBLEM

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23—There was an increased attendance of delegates this morning when the congress called to discuss the boll weevil problem assembled for its second day's session. Oliver Ackerman Eley, the deceased wife of Abram Eley, was born in Zanesville, Ohio, on the 27th day of March in the year 1831. She departed this life on Nov. 17th, 1910. She was in her 80th year at the time of her death. The subject of this sketch came with her parents to Millwood and from there she with her father's family moved to Bloomfield, O. In 1846 she was married to William Dehority with whom she lived for 13 years. She was married again in 1861 to the husband who survives her. In 1905 she came to this city where she made her permanent residence. Mrs. Eley was religious from her cradle. It is worthy of note that every member of the family in which she was born was a devoted Christian and all were connected with the church. She herself united with the Methodist church when a mere child and held that membership until her death, when she went from the church militant to the church triumphant which is without defect before the throne of God. Because of her long years of suffering death with her was welcomed. Her end was radiant with hope. Many times she spoke of her dear husband and precious children, and said only because of them would she care to endure such suffering. Frequently she said "how I wish we were all going together." She endured as seeing Him who is invisible, and catching broad glimpses of the morning light and be at rest when leaving this world." She will be mourned by her husband and three children, Mrs. Irene Osborne of Ashly, Miss Martha Opal Dehority and Dr. W. S. Eley of Fredericktown.

Mr. R. E. Copper spent Thanksgiving in Delaware.

The literary programs given by the primary and secondary departments were well rendered. The schools will not give Christmas programs, because the church programs require all the time the children have for this kind of work.

There will be preaching services at the Baptist church next Sunday morning and evening. A large attendance of the members is desired as at the close of the morning service a vote will be taken in reference to the calling of Rev. W. G. Carl as pastor of the church.

VIRGINIA AND NORTH CAROLINA

Richmond, Va., Nov. 23—Lovers of the gridiron sport in two states are on edge in anticipation of the annual game to be played here tomorrow between the eleven of the University of Virginia and the University of North Carolina. Ever since 1892, with the exception of three or four years in which no games were played, the football contest between the neighboring state university teams has been a Thanksgiving day attraction in Richmond and has never failed to attract large crowds. The rival between the two institutions is intense and at every game two armies of loyal followers always turn out to root for the victory of their favorites. Virginia has far the better of it in the record of the past. Of fourteen games played the Charlottesville team has ten victories to four scored by the North Carolina team. In 1902 the teams played a tie game.

TIGERS AND JAYHAWKERS

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 23—Hundreds of followers of the University of Kansas and the University of Missouri are preparing to invade Kansas City tomorrow for the annual gridiron dual which will award football honors to one or the other of the rival state institutions. It will be the twentieth consecutive year that the two elevens have met. Of the nineteen games played Kansas has won fourteen and Missouri four. In 1900 the game resulted in a tie.

BIRTHDAY OF EX-MAYOR McCLELLAN

New York, Nov. 23—George B. McClellan, the predecessor of Judge Gaynor as mayor of New York, received the congratulatory of many friends today on his forty-fifth birthday anniversary. Mr. McClellan has taken no active part in politics since his retirement from the mayoralty and in local political circles much curiosity has been manifested as to his future. Recently he was among those mentioned as possible successors to Woodrow Wilson in the presidency of Princeton University.

SOUTHERN EDUCATORS TO MEET

Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 23—Elaborate arrangements are being made for the entertainment of the Southern Educational Association, which is to hold its annual convention in this city during the Christmas holidays.

During the past year or two the association has greatly increased its membership and broadened its scope of work and as a result it is expected that the coming meeting will be the largest and the most important ever held by the organization. The participants in the three days' sessions will include many distinguished educators of Texas, Georgia, Louisiana, Kentucky, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, Virginia, West Virginia, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and other states included in the territory of the association.

MAURICE H. DONAHUE

Democrat Elected to Seat on Ohio Supreme Bench.

TAFT ADDRESSES THE TEACHERS

Richmond, Va., Nov. 23—President Taft was welcomed with genuine Southern hospitality when he stopped off here today on his way home from Charleston. The visit was the second with which Mr. Taft has honored Richmond since he became president. Upon his arrival in the city he was met by a reception committee of prominent citizens, including Governor Mann and Mayor Richardson. A drive about the city, a luncheon at the governor's residence and an address delivered before the State teachers' convention were the chief features of the day's program.
